Changing TNB account names to protect landlords

KUALA LUMPUR: Owners who rent out their homes and commercial premises can change the electricity account name to their tenants' names by performing the Change of Tenancy (CoT) during the rental period to keep the accounts organised and protect landlords' rights. Tenaga Nasional Bhd chief retail officer Datuk Megat Jalaluddin Megat Hassan said this allowed tenants to be fully responsible for their electricity consumption and bill payment. "Premises owners can monitor tenants' monthly payment and usage patterns via the myTNB application and portal." He said TNB customers could apply for COT via www.mytnb.com.my or visit the nearest Kedai Tenaga. On complaints of premises owners burdened with tenants' electricity bills upon the discovery of meter tampering by cryptocurrency miners, Megat said COT reduced the risk of owners having to settle their tenants' defaulted bill payments. Bernama
